

5473 Wilfred (Wilf) Lloyd Allan Cude

Teacher, writer, activist - has passed away at age 80. Wilf taught English literature at the Royal Military College, the Canadian Coast Guard College, the University of British Columbia, Concordia, Cape Breton University and Saint Francis Xavier. He was a storyteller in word and song, and friends and family will long cherish these special memories. Through his scholarly publications, he made a significant contribution to English literary criticism. As an activist, he fought tirelessly for fairness and institutional reform. Universities and political systems were the focus of his efforts, and his work consistently reminded those institutions of their duty to serve and evolve. Wilf is survived by his wife, Mary Pat; his children, Alison, Caryl (Stephen), Jonathan (Bellona) and! Roberta; grandchildren, Alexa, Camryn, Matthew, Riley and Connor; his brother, Alan (Beverly); sister, Beverly. He is predeceased by his brother, David (Wendy). Wilf is remembered for his kindness, generosity and humour. He was a beloved husband, (grand)father, brother and friend. The entire Cude family would like to thank the Palliative Care team and the staff in Strait Richmond Hospital for their wonderful care and support. As Wilf wished, and in keeping with his dedication to teaching and research, his body has been donated to Dalhousie's medical school. Donations in his memory can be made to Amnesty International, Doctor's Without Borders or to the charity of your choice. A celebration of Wilf's life will be held in the St. Georges Channel Community Hall on November 3rd at 2 p.m.
